

Installation of treads should be laid out so that the riser falls behind the tread below to allow for height adjustment as needed.